Advice To Incoming College Freshmen

Prisha Mishra SJSU

Dear future college freshman,

As you now embark on this frightening transition from high school to college I'm here to tell you it is daunting. As much as we hear about how college turns out to be some of the best years of your life, it is still scary. But the scary parts are going to be prominent throughout, it's better to start learning to use it to your advantage. My biggest advice to you all would be to experience anything and everything. No matter what career path you choose or what major you are still deciding to pursue, the opportunities in college are endless. In my experience you should never let any opportunity or experience pass you by. It is the glimmer of hope that awaits you. As you continue your educational experience make sure that challenges, such as hard classes or the struggle of making friends, never stop you from trying. I promise that the things you think are scary and stupid might just be the best adventure you'll have. After my first year at college I would recommend that you join that club that doesn't have anything to do with your major, go and talk to that person on your dorm floor, and finally remember that this is a small part of your huge life that is still yet to come. Having fear is normal, but don't let it control you, each person in this world forges their own path and has their own version of a college experience. Don't chase that expectation of a picture perfect "college life" but instead surround yourself with people who you know consistently make you smile and strive to become the best version of yourself. As you begin your first year of college, there may be many moments of loneliness as you move away from home or even if you continue living at home, but I want you all to fully embrace every part of your life. Finally the last piece of advice I will bestow upon you all is, whatever situation you are in remember that you don't have to but instead you get to have these experiences. Those experiences, bad or good, will definitely give you a wonderful story to tell.

Isaac Unsworth Oakland Mercedes

Hello future graduating class I speak to you from beyond and hope to inform you that you will be okay. In my industry, I've met people from walks of life, college or no college, who've become greatly successful. Who would have thought I would be selling 250 thousand dollar cars making 6 figures with not one class after high school? Just try to slow down and enjoy life as it comes by, but never forget to have a goal you're striving towards.

Kyla Brown FedEx

Dear WHS Seniors,
Your life after high school will be full of many new experiences. The best advice I can give you is to put yourself out there. Try new things, and don't be afraid to let go of old things. The more things you try the more opportunities you create for yourself. Get ready to learn so many things about yourself and the world. As you embrace your new independence, don't forget about nurturing your support system. Good friends and connections will make the challenges life throws at you much easier to handle. Remember that failure is a part of growth, and there's nothing you can't bounce back from. Make mistakes, have fun, and stay safe!

Divya Rajesh Letter from the Editor-In-Chief!

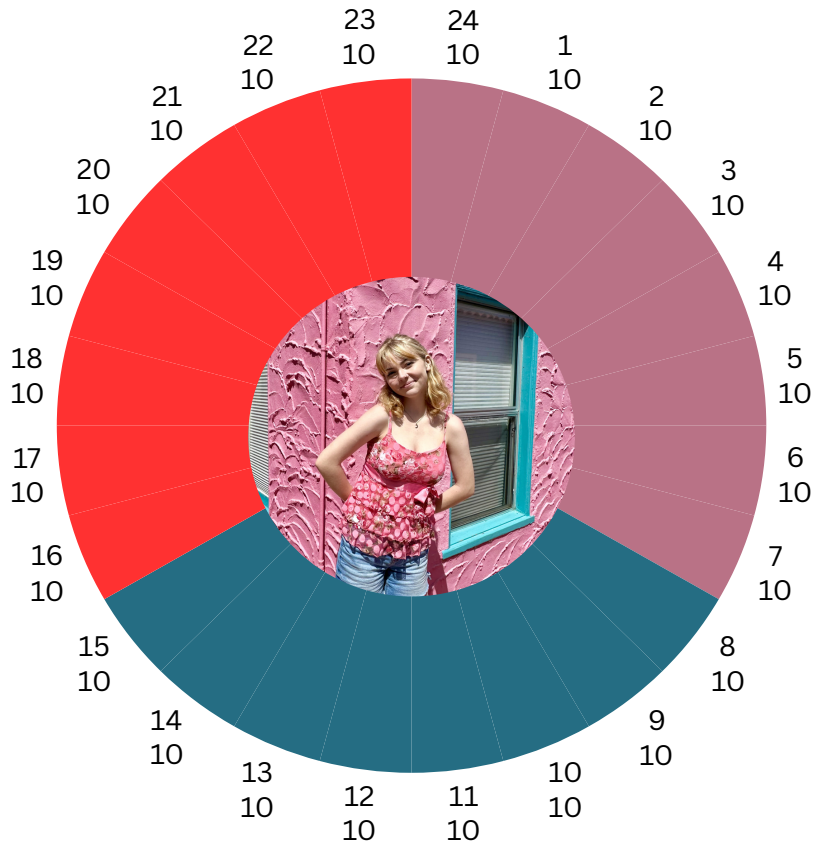

Dear reader,

We did it! Although we had a rough start to high school, the fact that we started on laptops and built our way up to graduation is a huge accomplishment we should all be proud of. I also want to especially thank everyone who has read and supported us through these past years, we would not be the great paper we are today without your support. We have worked very hard this year to provide our audience with numerous articles, videos, and podcasts, and are very excited for what we have in the works for next year. When I first began this class, I was extremely nervous and was unsure if I was even going to stay in this class. However now looking back, being apart of this paper has been the highlight of my highschool career, and I'm so fortunate to have been part of such an experience. For all the underclassman who have a few years left, appreciate the time you have in high school and make the most of it, 4 years really do go by fast. With that all said, this is Editor in Chief Divya signing out ;-)
